KINSHIP NAVIGATORS

How kinship navigators support kinship families:

- Listen, support and advocate for kinship families.
- Assist families with navigating multiple agencies (tribal, state, community agencies).
- Provide information and referral to community, state, and tribal resources including food, furniture and clothing banks.
- Facilitate support groups.
- Provide emergency assistance funds for eligible families.
- Identify respite supports and extracurricular activities.

Where to find your local kinship navigator,

Non-Needy Child Only TANF Grants

- No income requirements.
- Apply online at Washington Connection or visit your local Community Services Office (CSO).
- Recipients of child-only TANF are eligible to apply for one-time emergency assistance through the Additional Requirements for Emergent Needs (AREN) program.

Information for informal kinship families

Emergency Assistance

- Kinship families who are not child welfare involved can access Kinship Care Support Program (KCSP) funds from a kinship navigator or Area Agency on Aging.

FINANCIAL RESOURCES--continued

Information for formal kinship families

Monthly Foster Care Reimbursement

- Licensed foster parents can access the largest ongoing source of financial support for kinship caregivers. Lowest basic rate for children with no special needs is $562.00 per month and is more for children over 12.

Relative Support Service Funds

- These funds can be accessed through the assigned DCYF caseworker and are used to support temporary placement needs.

Concrete Goods

- Concrete goods can be used to support unlicensed kinship caregivers or those with a pending foster care license. The purpose of the funds is to support or maintain a child's placement and to facilitate licensing. These funds are most frequently accessed by Licensing Division staff.

Consent to Health Care for the Child in Your Care

A Kinship Caregiver's Guide

As a kinship caregiver, can I consent to health care for a child in my care?

Yes. Two state laws* allow kinship caregivers to consent to health care for a child when the parents are not available. This is true even if he or she does not have legal custody.

As a kinship caregiver, you may consent to health care for a minor child if you are an adult and:

- have a signed authorization from the child's parent to make health care decisions for the child;
- are a relative responsible for the health care of the child; or
- are a relative caregiver who has signed and dated a declaration (RCW 7.70.065).

What types of health care is included?

Health care can include medical, dental or mental health.

What if I am a relative caregiver involved with Children's Administration?

A relative still must have a court order to consent to surgery for a child placed with them through the Division of Children and Family Services.

* SHB 1281 (2005)

What is a declaration?

A declaration is a dated and signed written document that states certain information is true. As an adult kinship caregiver, you can sign a declaration saying you are a relative responsible for the health care of a minor child.

Although a signed declaration is not required under the law, health care providers may require it. A sample declaration can be found in this brochure or downloaded off the internet at: www.washingtonlawhelp.org. You may use this sample form or write a declaration of your own.

Keep in mind a declaration is "under the penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of Washington". Signing a declaration that you know to be false is a Class B felony.

How long is the declaration good for and what should I do if it expires?

A declaration is only good for six months from the date that it is signed. After six months, the declaration expires. You must then fill out and sign another declaration.

Does signing a declaration mean that I have legal custody of the child?

No. Signing the declaration only allows you to consent to health care for the child. The declaration has no effect on legal custody of the

What should I do if a health care provider asks for additional proof that I am a relative responsible for the child's health care?

Under the current laws, a provider may ask for proof that shows you are responsible for the child's health care. A health care provider can include a medical, dental or mental health provider. If this happens, the following items may be useful:

- (1) A will that lists your relationship to the child.
- (2) A letter from a social worker, school personnel, lawyer, religious leader, or a licensed medical, mental health, or behavioral professional that shows your relationship to the child.
- (3) Records from a school, hospital, clinic, or other public health or social service agency that shows your relationship to the child.
- (4) Proof that you receive a public benefit, such as TANF, SSI, medical coupons, food stamps, or free/reduced school lunch on behalf of the child.
- (5) Records from the Department of Social and Health Services that show that you are the contact for the child.
- (6) Proof that a child lives in your apartment or other housing and is related to you.
- (7) Insurance for you or the child that states your relationship.
- (8) Your Federal Income Tax return in which the child was listed.

Where can I get help?

There are several organizations that offer free legal information and referrals over the phone and/or information on the internet.
